By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review.)

ON THE former Kaiser's seventieth birthday, King George sent congratulations to the son of Queen Victoria's daughter.

Ten years ago the British prime minister was promising to hang the Kaiser.

BUT you don't hang your own cousin, and a hanging would not look well in the royal family records.

Ten years work wonders. Quite a change from a hanging to congratulations.

MR. WAGNER, who turned Texas oil into money, owns a race horse named Vermajo that will race at Tia Juana in two important races, and is nominated for the Louisiana derby at New Orleans four days later.

FROM Tia Juana to New Orleans the horse will travel by airplane, no other transportation being fast enough. This demonstrates that it will be necessary to find for race track gambling some better excuse than "improving the speed of horses."

The fastest horse is slow compared to a little runabout.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, Jr., called on Egypt's king, Fuad, Monday. When the Ptolemys were on the throne, and Anthony ran away with Cleopatra for the sake of her gold, a visitor would have crawled to the throne on his hands and knees. That's changed.

NOW a simple visitor from over the ocean, calling on a king, whose ancestors were the richest in the world, could buy that king and not miss the money.

Moral: Invest in America.

ODGEN MILLS, past 70, dangerously ill of pneumonia gained strength and hope of recovery—thanks to two blood transfusions, but it failed to save him.

Not all doctors realize the important part that blood transfusion is to play in medicine. Transfusion, once used as a last resort, and usually too late, is resorted to promptly by doctors that understand its value.

IT DOES for a worn-out body what recharging does for an exhausted electric battery.

Credit is due to Dr. Henry Abelman, of Chicago, who has done more than any other to establish the value of modern blood transfusion, having

WHIPS HORSE, THEN GETS LASH

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—The wife of a well known attorney and a peddler, both of which figured in a sensational whipping act in a Chicago street, today awaited a joint trial on Feb. 6 before Judge William S. Sanders.

The woman, Mrs. Agnes Michal, wife of Attorney Charles J. Michal of Hinsdale, late yesterday came upon Max Steinborn, the peddler, in the act of whipping his horse which had fallen on the ice-covered street. She wrested the whip from his hand and laid a series of well aimed lashes over Steinborn's back. Both were arrested.

Mrs. Michal said that when she upbraided Steinborn for whipping the helpless horse he became insulting and told her to "go home and wash your dishes."

GENERAL BOOTH WINS IN FIGHT FOR HIGH POST

Scores in Salvation Army Leadership Battle.

COUNCIL IS HIT

Chancery Court Says "Unfit" Resolution Cannot Stand.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Justice Eve in chancery court today granted General Bramwell Booth an injunction restraining the Salvation Army high council from acting upon the resolution removing him from his generalship or appointing a successor. A temporary injunction had been in effect since January 18.

The injunction will stand until after a further meeting of the high council when General Booth should have an opportunity of being heard.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—General Bramwell Booth won an important legal victory today in his fight to prevent the Salvation Army high council from deposing him and electing a successor as supreme leader of the organization.

When arguments were concluded this afternoon in chancery court upon the injunction obtained by General Booth against the high council, Justice Eve, the presiding jurist, in delivering judgment, said:

"While it is not denied that the general's long absence through illness brought about serious results in the organization of the army, it was a mistake that General Booth was not given an opportunity for defending his case. Therefore the resolution of January 17 wherein the general was declared unfit, cannot stand."

The high council's lawyer had maintained that the only question for the judge to decide was whether the general was justly treated.

In his address to the court the lawyer said:

"Our attitude is that everything that could be said for the general was said in the high council meeting as eloquently as it could have been said by any advocate. To re-summon the high council is undesirable from every point of view."

MIDLAND MILL WORKER BURNED

MIDLAND, Pa., Jan. 30.—Frank Trico, 40, chipper at the Pittsburgh Crucible Steel plant, is believed to be in a serious condition today in the Rochester General hospital as the result of burns sustained yesterday afternoon when his trousers caught fire from hot metal while working in the mill yard.

Earl Averette, 28, colored laborer, of 444 Penn. avenue, who was struck in the left hip by an electric car while working in the stockhouse at 8:30 o'clock this morning was also taken to the Rochester hospital for an X-ray examination.

BENEDUM WILL ASK FUNDS FOR MOTORCYCLISTS ON POLICE JOB

Two Additional Men are Recommended by Mayor.

NEED EQUIPMENT

Council Will be Urged To Vote Appropriation.

Recommendations for funds with which to employ two motorcycle patrolmen for the outlying residential sections will be presented to council by Mayor Ralph C. Benedum within the next month, he said today.

An appropriation to purchase and maintain equipment as well as to meet the salaries of two officers will be asked.

Employment of motorcycle officers, Mayor Benedum said, would assist the police department in answering calls in hold-ups and robberies. A motorist would be able to trail automobiles to a much better advantage than a motorist, he believes.

The appointment would be assigned to traffic duty, too.

A move for the employment of motorcycle patrolmen was launched during the administration of the late Mayor Charles Brown about five years ago. Two used motorcycles, which were purchased at the time were sold during Benedum's administration after they had been tested and found to have been practically worn out, the mayor said.

Four street men were added to the police force about a year ago when 12 firemen were appointed. This increased the strength of the police department to 14.

FLIER JENSEN IS FORCED DOWN

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Jan. 30.—Martin Jensen, Dole flight prize winner, who hopped off here this morning on an attempt to set a new world's endurance record for solo flight, was forced down at Eaton's Neck, near Northport, L. I., this afternoon after being in the air slightly more than two hours.

Jensen brought his plane down on a barren stretch of beach without injury.

In a telephone call to Roosevelt Field he said that his plane was unable to properly carry its heavy load of fuel because of a high wind blowing over Long Island.

SCHOOL GIRL BADLY BURNED

Miss Minnie Harries, 14, high school freshman and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Harries, Jennings avenue, sustained burns to her back when her nightgown ignited from an open gas stove in the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Burbeck, Smithfield street, Gardendale, at 7:30 o'clock this morning.

Miss Elfreda Burbeck, who heard her screams, tore the burning gown from the girl, who was taken to her home where Dr. C. H. Bailey dressed her burns.

GRANT NEW STAY IN LENGEL CASE

CANTON, O., Jan. 30.—A new stay of execution, barring S. A. Lengel, former Canton police chief, from reinstatement to that office, has been issued by the court of appeals from the Toledo district, it was learned here today.

A former stay granted by the appellate court for this district, kept Lengel out of office until yesterday and the new order is to remain in effect until a decision is handed down on error proceedings by Judge William P. Stephenson, in common pleas court here, later this week.

Japanese Newspaper Correspondent, Rotary Guest, Lauds Effort to Solve Pacific Problem

M. T. Yamamoto, Tokio, Visits City in Study of Industrial Conditions.

Efforts of the late President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes to bring about a better understanding of the problems of the Pacific were praised by M. T. Yamamoto, Tokio newspaper correspondent and lecturer, in his address before members of the Rotary club at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday.

Yamamoto, who is in the United States to make a study of social, economic and industrial conditions, probably will return to East Liverpool to address students of the high school.

"Great international conferences of recent years indicate that the nations of the world today are more conscious about international peace and cooperation than ever before," said Yamamoto. "The Washington conference of 1922 accomplished much in bringing America and Japan into a better understanding of the problems of the Pacific, the fact of which is an eloquent tribute to President Harding and Secretary Hughes."

Beer-Brewery-Bribery Allegation is Aired In Treasurer's Trial

John F. Eckhart, Testifying for Government, Confused in Cross-examination by Defense.

USE DICTOGRAPH TO GET EVIDENCE

Government Charges State Official Tried to Obtain Information Regarding Liquor Raids.

By John J. Vincent. COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 30.—The three b's, "beer-breweries-bribery" were given a further airing in federal court here today as the trial of the state treasurer, Bert B. Buckley, on bribery and liquor conspiracy charges, entered its third day.

High spots in the testimony yesterday were the befuddling of the government's star witness, John F. Eckhart, on the witness stand, the disclosure that dictographs were used in gathering evidence, and the admission from the witness stand by Don W. Griffin, federal dry inspector, that the dictograph notes he took were not full records of the conversation.

Eckhart who "made the case on Buckley," started his testimony Monday but it was not until he was cross-examined yesterday that the trial began to live up to its name.

Government's Charges. It is charged by the government that Buckley tried to bribe Eckhart to disclose information as to when certain breweries in Cincinnati that were allegedly manufacturing illegal beer, were to be raided. The case was the outgrowth of a raid by federal officers on the Jackson Brewery company at Cincinnati when four cases of beer containing over the legal alcohol percentage were found.

Joseph Sperber, brewmaster, sought the aid of John Schrimper and Adolph (Dolly) Gruber, two Cincinnati attorneys, who in turn sought the aid of Buckley. The state treasurer is alleged to have offered Eckhart $300 a month and promised him political influence to obtain for him the job of state prohibition commissioner of Ohio.

Eckhart, speaking from the witness stand, said Monday that Buckley mentioned the names of Governor Myers V. Cooper, and U. S. Senator Simon Fess, as two "higher ups" who were anxiously watching the results of the brewery case. Yesterday, under cross-examination he denied that Buckley mentioned the two Republicans, but said that Buckley had intimated that Cooper and Fess were "interested."

Just before he left the witness stand, Judge Benson W. Hough, who is presiding, gave the dry officer a chance to clear up his conflicting statements and Eckhart told his first story over again and said it was the truth.

Stenographer Testifies. The federal official was plainly nervous on the stand. At one time when he was returning a report to Henry A. Williams, defense attorney, his hand shook. This could be seen from across the courtroom.

Mrs. Maude Carson, stenographer in the prohibition office, also testified yesterday. She was one of the witnesses when the dictograph records of conversations between Buckley and Eckhart were introduced.

BELLE ISLE, Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 30.—A high cold wind, which came in on the heels of yesterday's rain squalls, kept President-elect Herbert Hoover from his fishing grounds today. The weather in the vicinity of the golf stream where the marine and sailfish play was gusty and chilly.

The run of about 80 miles down to Long Key probably will be made by train.

BETHANY CLASS HEARS REVIVAL CHIEF SPEAK

Let Christ Into Your Heart, Urges Rev. W. H. Baker.

VISITORS ATTEND

Crowds at Services In Church of Christ.

Affirming the free moral agency of man to choose whether he should accept or reject Jesus Christ, the Rev. W. H. Baker, the pastor, now engaged in an evangelistic campaign in the First Church of Christ, East Fourth street, last night urged his hearers to let Him into their hearts and minds.

He spoke from Revelations, his text being the statement, "Behold I stand at the door and knock."

Led by their teacher, Enoch Jones, more than 100 persons constituting Bethany class of the congregation's Sunday school, appeared at the meeting in a body. In addition there were delegations present from the Christian Endeavor society and Christian churches at Salineville and Newell, W. Va.

An inspiring service of song featured the preliminary exercises to the sermon. It was directed by H. C. Bird of Oklahoma, with Mrs. Bird as accompanist. He sang "The Holy City."

The Temple quartet, composed of Kurt Bergner, Joseph Mays, George Eisenhuth and Earl Beaver, sang "I Stand at the Door and Knock."

Three more classes of the Sunday school will attend tonight's services when the Rev. Mr. Baker probably will preach on the subject, "Sowing and Reaping."

Rev. Mr. Baker gave a picture of the Apostle John's viewpoint of the Christ standing at the door of the human mind and heart with the wish of entering and becoming the motivating influence therein.

Power to Accept or Reject.

"Man is sovereign in that he has the power to accept or reject Jesus Christ," he said. "But by means of evangelists, preachers and teachers He ever makes this appeal to get inside of man's citadel of thinking and feeling. He would, 'if any man hear Him come in and sup with Him.' He is thus on the outside and the latch-string of the human door is on the inside and can be opened only by the man himself. He will not infringe upon the sovereign rights of choice vouchsafed to man. Acceptance or rejection must of his own free will and accord be made by man."

He also laid down some of the things which prevent man from accepting Christ.

"There is disbelief, disobedience, the desire to have our own way, the dominance of our pleasures, greed, worldly lust, passion and many kindred departures which finally resolve themselves to a full rejection."

"All accepting Christ into their hearts and minds will know of His presence," he concluded. "The only way not to know Him is to keep the latchstring inside from being opened to His entrance."

Madge Bellamy explains the growing popularity of Old Golds in Hollywood

"The 'hero' in a movie may easily become the 'villain' if he coughs at the wrong time. A cough isn't nice at any time, but when it interrupts the taking of a movie scene, it's a calamity! Re-takes are costly!

AIDS DISABLED

Commander Browne
Cites Vets' Hospital
Movement.

The American Legion has set aside the week of February 3 to 9 as "Know the Legion Week," during which time it proposes to enlighten the public on the aims, purposes and accomplishments of that organization. It was announced today by officers of East Liverpool post No. 4.

Some of the subjects to be stressed will be legislation affecting the disabled World War veterans and their dependents; the Legion as a civic and patriotic organization and its place in the community.

Its officers point out that the organization from its very inception has assumed the responsibility of seeing to it that adequate provisions are made by the government to care for the sick and wounded veterans and their dependents. The Legion is responsible for the creation of the Veterans' bureau, for the building of government hospitals, and for the legislation providing financial relief for this group, according to a statement made by J. H. Browne, commander of East Liverpool Post No. 4. He also calls attention to work accomplished in Ohio through the service department of The American Legion last year, when 8,253 cases were handled, recovering more than $340,000 for these veterans.

Commander Outlines Work. Browne said that the important work before the Legion now, and in the future will be, the care of orphans of the World War veterans, and to see that proper homes are provided for them. It is the aim of the Legion that where a widow and children are left destitute, to keep them together, and to make this possible a $5,000,000 national endowment fund was raised, the interest of which is being used for this purpose.

Browne also called attention to the Legion's Boy Scout programs, taking in boys between the ages of 12 and 17, to teach them fair play, obedience, patriotism, and sportsmanship, all of which help to build a better citizenship.

According to the Legion, their activities are many and varied and are of vital importance to the entire citizenship of every community.

Favors Universal Draft Bill. According to Browne, members of The American Legion are "heartily in favor of peace, but not peace at any price. The American Legion is in favor of an adequate defense to insure peace. It is also in favor of the universal draft bill now before congress, as a step toward peace. This bill gives the president of the United States the power to draft capital and labor, as well as all other resources of America in the event of war, and to fix prices for commodities and labor in such an emergency."

Honoring Memory of McKinley

Yesterday marked the birthday anniversary of the martyred President William McKinley, one of the honored sons of Ohio whom the East Liverpool district probably knew better than any other man who has occupied the White House.

With the late Warren G. Harding, who, too, had many personal friends here, President McKinley held a warm spot in the hearts of the people of the Ceramic City. As congressman and later as the nation's chieftain, he often visited here, and was a guest in the home of the late Col. John N. Taylor which was then located on what is now known as the city lot in Sixth street.

The birthday of the man who was East Liverpool's neighbor, for Canton was his home, was marked by McKinley day banquets throughout the country and signaled by the circulation of petitions in the Stark county metropolis to determine whether the martyred president's home shall be located on Meyers park grounds as a permanent national shrine.

Of interest to East Liverpool was the reunion and banquet of the United Spanish War Veterans of Allegheny county at the Hotel Schenley in Pittsburgh last night. Tribute was paid to the memory of the leader of the nation during their war service and himself a soldier of the Civil war. The honor guest was William L. Grayson, of Savannah, Georgia, commander-in-chief of the national organization, who was a captain during the 1898 hostilities, a war which healed the breach between the North and South. And another speaker was Captain Irving O'Hay, of Roosevelt's Rough Riders who was a recent guest of the East Liverpool Rotary club.

In bygone years, McKinley day was celebrated here. With the press of other affairs, no observance has been held recently. Perhaps next year East Liverpool will join with many other cities in paying homage to the man who was always interested in the city's progress.

Mexico's Road Program

The Mexican government plans to expend $45,000,000 during the next five years on new highways to connect eight of her cities and to complete the Mexican division of the Pan-American highway from the southern border of the United States to the Guatemalan frontier, which she plans to open to traffic in 1934. This sum, together with $15,000,000 expended since 1925 on improved highways, will make a total expenditure for that purpose of $60,000,000 in nine years.

An expenditure of $45,000,000 for highways over a five-year period may not appear so heavy in Ohio, where it has been seriously proposed to expend $150,000,000 during the next five years on a road program, yet the Mexican expenditure, all things considered, will be greater than our own should we expend the sum proposed.

This does not mean that the resources of Ohio are greater than those of all Mexico. The resources of Mexico are almost limitless, but while Ohio's have been developed largely and turned into active wealth, the resources of Mexico are yet very large in their natural state. The Mexican per capita expenditure is but one-seventh of the Buckeye state's proposed capita expenditure, for her population of 14,308,753 is more than double our estimated population of 6,710,000 in 1927, but on the other hand our wealth is $18,489,000,000, while that of Mexico is but $6,012,229,152, which means that our per capita wealth is six times hers and ours is very largely producing wealth while much of hers is not.

The figures show the earnestness of our sister republic in meeting the call for a great highway to connect in three Americas. If all the republics of Central and South America the highway is planned to traverse possess but a measure of the enthusiasm shown by Mexico for the project, it will soon become an actuality.

Chemistry The Key

"Billy" Evans, at Ohio State university, has been awarded one of the most important honors extended in his branch of work. Around here every Ohio Stater knows who "Billy" Evans is. That's what he is called on the campus at Columbus. He is really Professor William Lloyd Evans, chairman of the department of chemistry; his chief work has been investigation of the properties of carbohydrates, and he has been awarded the Nicholas medal this year by the New York section of the American Chemical society, one of the most distinguished honors in science. He began his researches 20 years ago in the laboratory at Ohio State university.

Well and good, but what does abstract chemistry mean to the man in the street? What does he care for test tubes and retorts and the action of catalytic agents and reaction of one element when combined with another? The answer is that he doesn't care. He doesn't know of the vast army of school and industrial and other research chemists bending over their laboratory tables, so that his wife can wear rayon hosiery and be as satisfied with it as with silk. He doesn't think about it as he pours a patent anti-freeze solution into the radiator of the car. He doesn't think about the chemical and metallurgical processes that have been developed to refine his car, his home, his food.

It's the army of students in the laboratories which holds the key to an ever-spreading array of luxuries and refinements. Those who recall the recent coal conference at Pittsburgh easily realize this. Billions of atoms of power remain as yet unreleased in a chunk of coal. Chemistry will some day release them. Hundreds of products are yet to come from a coal base. Chemistry will discover them. Indeed it has been declared that the future of a strip of land from the lakes down through eastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania is not in the air. We may find it at our feet. Coal conversion offers possibilities of an industrial expansion almost undreamed of. Instead of dirty coal mine and endless streams of coal cars we may some day see nothing but plants at the mouths of coal shafts—plants converting the coal into hundreds of varieties of material to be made into clothes to wear, building material, more efficient fuel, and perhaps classes of food to eat. The chemist has yet to gain even the threshold, despite his wonderful accomplishments thus far.

The new paper money will be "in pastel shades, easy on the eyes and pleasant to look at." But looking at it will never give that spirit of content experienced from the feel of it in one's inside pocket.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 30.—Opportunity is afforded to make an interesting and important comparison of the differing effects which modern life has on given raw material as compared with the effects produced a century ago. From many economic points of view the Argentine Republic of today is in almost the same position as regards the raw material of a country that the United States was in, say, 1830.

A century ago the United States was a predominantly agricultural nation with three quarters or more of its people living in rural communities. Argentina is in much the same general position today although Buenos Aires is a far larger city than any American city of a hundred years ago.

But, as a general proposition, the groundwork of the Argentine of today and the United States of a hundred years ago bear striking resemblances. Then the United States had an area of 1,732,223 square miles composed of mountain, valley, and plain. It had a population of 12,566,020. However, only 10,526,248 were white persons and free.

Today the Argentine Republic has an area of 1,153,119 square miles of mountain, valley, and plain and a population of 10,646,514. The closeness of the figures as to population is striking. The difference between the number of people in Argentina in the present day and the number in the United States in 1830 could be crowded into a few apartment houses in New York City.

A striking difference, however, is to be noted in the tide of immigration into the United States then and into the Argentine now. A century ago the annual average increase in population here was 320,000; today Argentina has an average annual increase of 212,000.

The social and racial situation in the two countries is almost precisely comparable. In 1830, with the exception of the negro slaves, the population was made up overwhelmingly by a homogeneous people—English, Scotch, and Irish. The German and South European tide of immigration had not begun to set in. The big German wave came after the German revolutionary disorders of 1848.

Today, immigration into the Argentine Republic consists almost wholly of Spaniards and Italians. Both are Latin races and although their languages are different, the difference is not wide as for, example, the difference between English and French or English and German. Further, their social customs are not dissimilar and their temperaments approximate the identical. Both are pastoral peoples and scatter over the soil readily, amalgamating and becoming locally nationalistic.

It is true that Germans have gone to the Argentine but their numbers have been small compared with the numbers of the Spanish and Italian immigrants. The Germans who go to the Argentine remain in the ports and cities and engage in trade and commerce. Consequently they are more conspicuous. The Italians and Spaniards disappear into the country and become tillers of the soil and breeders of livestock, miners, and the like.

So we have a sort of stage setting with the same homogeneous characters for each country, the same numbers, approximately the same territory, the same temperate climate, the same topographical aspects, and, to a considerable extent, similar natural resources. Yet, an examination shows that in these times much more can be done with the setting and the opportunities than was or could be done by the people of the United States a century ago.

The most outstanding difference is the railroad. Today there are nearly 24,000 miles of railroad in Argentina while in 1830 American railroad mileage was negligible; in fact wholly in an experimental state. Street car mileage in a small city of today exceeds railroad mileage for the entire country a century ago. Wagons and pack trains and canals were the chief reliance in transport.

In 1830 a tremendous commerce overseas was being carried on by the United States but it was all borne by sailing ships. The Baltimore clipper was in its heyday and the foreign trade seemed large for the time. Today, to Argentine ports come fast ocean liners, great cargo ships, and all manner of steam craft. In terms of transportation Argentina today is nearer to her European markets than Peston was to Norfolk, Va., in 1830.

In the same basic economic position as was the United States a century ago, the Argentina of today is vastly richer. Her people ride in automobiles, a vehicle undreamed of in the United States of 1830. The radio brings voices from all over the world whereas in 1830 there was not even an ocean cable connecting America with Europe nor any land telegraph.

One need merely think of about everything that he regards as a necessity, then realize that not one of them was in existence in 1830 but that today the Argentinians have them all, to realize the striking contrasts which accompany the similarities in the situations of the two nations.

It will be an interesting study to watch the development of Argentina in view of these circumstances; that is, she is proceeding with the same basic situation which the United States had in 1830 but with modern equipment. She even has the blessings of the installment plan. How much more rapid will be the acceleration of her national development.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

PARIS, Jan. 30.—Paris is a paradise for the prowler. One may turn off from a turbulent roaring boulevard and its flashy throngs into a narrow, winding and desolate street, to see perhaps a lone figure perfunctorily sketching a wisp of cloud. This morning with my dog I set forth early.

Paris was going—fluttering is a better term—to work. The corrugated shutter fronts of the shops had been raised. Buses bulged with chattering loads. Bearded Frenchmen with handle-bar luncheons were pedalling madly. Teamsters screamed, their dogs—every teamster has his dog—yipped. And street criers blew their horns.

Nothing is quite so vibrant as an early Paris morning. It has a hum. Crossing over to the Left Bank I strolled, one never walks briskly here, along the Quai beyond the Chamber of Deputies and toward the Ile de la Cite—the original site of Paris. In one of the esplanades a traveling circus was beginning its day.

A "strong man" in tattered tights was braving the chill to lift weights for a sleep-every hand. A wheezy carousel at this hour had two customers and a few drivers had deserted two-wheeled carts to test their luck at a huge spinning gambling wheel. It was all as depressing as the chilly mist.

Further along were the famous Hautes des Vin with their enormous casks of wine and pungent, sour odors. Ponderous low-slung trunks, drawn by teams of six and eight horses, were being loaded for a part of the day's whoopee water consumption. On the Seine, the poor were doing their washing in municipal laundry boats.

Turning into a little side street that proved a blind alley, I dropped into a chair at a sidewalk table. A bar woman finally came out of the dingy depths scowling. And learning my desire was cafe au lait, tripled the scowl. I imagine the same effect could be had ordering a hot dog at the Ritz.

Everywhere women wilded needles, some knitting as they strolled. Men, only idled. Women symbolize the industry of France in poorer sections. The promenade finally took me past an infamous cafe where waitresses wait on trade au naturel. I hurried by with eyes cast demurely down, blushing like everything.

One of the omnipresent figures in the region of the Place Vendome is the American, E. Barry Wall. You always see him. He wears the same type of huge puff tie and flaring pointed choke collar that distinguished him in the days when, as New York's fashion plate, his 300 suits of clothes were always good for a Sunday feature story. Every afternoon he may be found at Rumpelmayer's at tea-time with his chow. He is one of the last of New York's vanishing aristocrats of the Nineties, and he and his wife are not only active in American charities but extremely popular with the self-exiled.

Count Boni de Castellane, the discarded husband of Anna Gould, is also to be found where Americans gather, dancing his exquisite attendance upon rich old ladies of leisure. A French bull dog, too, is his constant companion.

Count Boni reminds me that never in Paris have I seen the stage and comic paper type of French count—the sort with high, peaked silk hat, waxed mustache and slim imperial, high-heeled shoes and such. Boni, for instance, might be an ordinary type of merchant hereabouts, or even a third baseman in the Southern league. Several other counts I have beheld do not look unlike the prosperous farmer types one sees on Paris fete days. But maybe the count business these days is not up to scratch.

An outstanding trait of the French is what we would instantly class as trickiness, but is not so regarded by natives. It is not vicious, but annoying. Today in a rue St. Honore shop I asked for a certain brand of shaving soap. The proprietor almost prostrated himself trying to sell another brand. I feared an apoplectic seizure, but bravely held out for what I came for. Finally, with a deprecating shrug and the hurt, wounded expression of a stricken doe, he wrapped up the package and handed it to me. At home I found the son of a gun had sold me the brand he touted.

I used to . . . into a rare over such shenanigans and storm back to the shops like a thundering cloud. You never saw me really mad! But I don't do that anymore. I found their apologies would be so abject that just to square your conscience you would permit them to sell you a lot more things you did not want. I came away once with an eyebrow comb and a night cap.

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

It is important to keep the air of the home fresh and sweet. This is just as necessary in the Winter time in Northern climates as it is in the summer. You know how quickly flowers will droop and die unless they have fresh, cool air. If it is too cold they freeze just as your family would, but if you exercise common sense in such matters, you and yours will thrive.

I cannot resist saying that man does use common sense in almost everything except the care of his health. It would seem the natural thing to look after the body, to give it the same attention that plants, the automobile and the golf clubs have. But the body does not get one half the attention that most of our material possessions receive.

Endless experiments have been made in an attempt to find out what degree of temperature is best for health. As in almost everything else, science has forced us to revise a lot of our old ideas.

It is believed now that what we usually describe as over-heating does not decrease the power to work. The ability to do hard work is present, but the inclination to do it is not there.

In either case the result is the same. It takes a lot of stimulation for a man to work when he doesn't feel like it. It requires the stimulation cool air gives the skin, to whip the unwilling spirit into eagerness to work.

On this account the living and work rooms should be kept fairly cool. Most writers mention 68 degrees as the proper temperature. That is too low to suit me. For my comfort and happiness 70 or 72 degrees is about right.

Not only is temperature important, but the moisture or humidity of the air must be considered. If the air is too dry it is irritating and distressing. The skin and other tissues of the body lose moisture, because it is expelled into the air. In consequence the nose and mouth feel dry and parched.

A pan of water placed on the stove, the radiator, or in connection with the hot air furnace, will help a lot to give moisture to the air. Open windows overcome the drying effects of heating. A narrow space at top or bottom of the window will do much to give the proper amount of humidity. If this is covered by a screen of cloth it will break unpleasant drafts of air.

Free movement of the air is important. This stimulates the skin and does much to prevent unpleasant effects of a warm atmosphere.

Sunlight is essential. Dust and vapors should be guarded against.

Give thought to these things and the Winter will pass without the ill effects it may have produced in other years.

The Chief Justice.

Chief Justice Taft is an optimistic, mellowing philosophy. He is too wise to speak with definite positiveness concerning the trends of modern civilization in this country, but he has faith in his people and says so; he insists that, notwithstanding jazz impulses on the one hand and mournful prophecies on the other, the American people will find a way to solve all their problems. He said so last week in an illuminating interview accorded the New York World.

The chief justice believes that the most disturbing element in the national life at present is what he characterizes as the materialistic philosophy which places wealth and worldly success ahead of every other consideration in life.

In a little different phraseology the eminent jurist asks: "What will it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

Cincinnati's distinguished son does not expect the near approximation of the millennium, but he does feel that its coming may be facilitated by social and legislative progress compelled by a more sensitive public consciousness. The world was not made in a day. And every age, every civilization, has had its troublesome problems.

Justice Taft believes that the entire machinery of justice must be geared up to meet and control existing conditions—courts, police departments, prosecuting organizations—to enable them properly to deal with the issue of organized crime, which regards human life and property rights as of negligible importance in face of the enforcement of its evil desire.

We shall come through, said the chief justice. It is his optimistic faith that right must conquer wrong; that our civilization essentially is too valuable, constructive and noble to be swept away by the mounting waves of materialism and sordid crime.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy.

Are You Too Sure?
Aren't you too cocksure of your own opinion about matters on which you express your views?
The thing you think silly or worthless may be quite the reverse.

You may not have the fine sense of relative value, the keen intellect to see beneath the surface of the thing upon which you pronounce judgment.
How extensive is your knowledge of matters you discuss with authority?
You would not like to have your associates know how limited it is.

Half a dozen experiences and you think you can judge and be always right.
The well-versed man or woman, the world traveler, the great scientist, the habitual student is the one most reluctant to express unqualified opinion. He knows he is too often wrong.

He knows that no two circumstances can be exactly alike.
He admits the possibility of error creeping into judgment and thereby proving himself a safer guide.
He prefers to get the opinions of others and study subjects from the viewpoints presented.

Fifty years of
Pioneering and Achievement

The original Tide Water Company was organized in 1878. It is among the oldest in the industry. It laid the first pipe line across the Allegheny Mountains. It carried the first pipe line to Atlantic tide water. It began to build its refinery at Bayonne, N. J., when only an old farmhouse and a marsh occupied the town site. Always it has pioneered . . . in producing, in refining, in selling. And so prudent, so far-seeing has been its direction that Tide Water today stands as one of the most powerful and successful oil companies in the entire world.

Today Tide Water owns, or controls, its own sources of supply. It operates a great fleet of tank steamers to every corner of the world. The equipment at the Tide Water Refinery at Bayonne is of the finest and most advanced type. Leading technical colleges send their students and teachers to study Tide Water methods, machines, and craftsmanship.

Tide Water distribution is world wide. Its thousands of outlets, wholesale and retail, are rapidly growing in number. And its continued increase in volume of retail sales indicates the growing preference of the motoring public for Tide Water's featured products . . . VEEDOL MOTOR OIL and TYDOL GASOLINE.

Today Tide Water is particularly proud to be able to commemorate the Fiftieth Anniversary of the company . . . with the finest motor fuel in its history . . . Hi-test TYDOL, a true premium gasoline . . . at no premium in price!

FREE GUARDS IN SHOOTING

Jury Disagrees in Buffalo, N. Y. Trial.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Jan. 30. — Both Boatswain Frank L. Beck and Surfman Glen Jennings, coast guardsmen, charged with second degree manslaughter for the fatal shooting of Jacob D. Hanson, Buffalo Elks official, are free men today.

Jennings gained his liberty, temporarily at least, today when a jury in Judge John R. Hazel's court here failed to agree on a verdict after deliberating more than 20 hours. Beck was discharged by Judge Hazel yesterday for insufficient evidence.

When the jury filed into court at 9 o'clock this morning and said they had been unable to reach a verdict Judge Hazel quickly dismissed them with an expression of thanks for their services and announced that court was adjourned to 9 a. m. tomorrow.

Jennings was unaffected by the failure of the jury to reach a decision and made no statement.

District Attorney Raymond A. Knowles of Niagara county, who prosecuted the case, was frankly disappointed but not surprised. United States District Attorney Richard H. Templeton, who defended Jennings, refused to express an opinion as to the possibility of a retrial of the case, although the opinion of court officials is that a conviction cannot now be secured.

MISS LOWRIE, WEST POINT, DIES

Miss Katherine Helena Lowrie, daughter of the late David Marquis and Marian B. Lowrie, died yesterday in the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Bough, West Point, after a long illness.

Miss Lowrie was born in St. Clair township and educated in the public schools and the Ohio Valley Business college, East Liverpool. She was formerly employed in the Dollar Savings bank and later in the office of the faculty of the state university at Moscow, Idaho. At the time of her illness she was private secretary to the Rev. Dr. James Thompson, superintendent of the Presbyterian Board of National Missions in the synod of Washington at Seattle.

She was formerly a member of the First Presbyterian church, East Liverpool, but later affiliated with the Nez Perce Indian Presbyterian church near the McBeth Presbyterian mission, Lapwai, Idaho.

Funeral services will be held at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon, in the Madison Presbyterian church, in charge of the Rev. W. W. Gans, assisted by the Rev. Dr. C. N. Church of Lisbon. Burial will be made in Riverview cemetery.

performed more than 2,000 such transfusions.

MONDAY night President Coolidge made his farewell talk on government expenses.

Cabinet officers, federal employees paying out public money, heard the President's last admonitions on the importance of economy.

This country should be grateful to an economical President, coming in at a time when billions had been squandered, and many might have continued the squandering.

MANY have asked, "What is courage?" There is no doubt about Capt. George Fried's courage, or that of his crew, picking up passengers in mid-ocean.

AS FINE as his courage is Capt. Fried's seamanship. Guided by appeals for help, from an invisible source, he found his way through the storm to the ship in distress. He told his men he hoped to reach the ship by 6 o'clock. He was alongside at 10 minutes past 6. Courage AND ability, fine combination.

IN NEW YORK a man set four dogs against a miserable cat that walked into his furnace cellar, seeking warmth. The cat was killed, the man went to jail for six months—a just sentence.

What should be the sentence of a man making money by exploiting child labor? When did you hear of such a man going to jail?

NEW YORK CITY'S new police commissioner, Grover Whalen, intends to apply traffic laws to pedestrians—excellent idea.

It will facilitate traffic, and eventually diminish automobile casualties.

IT IS necessary for children and adults to realize that a modern highway is as dangerous as a railroad track, even more dangerous, since "cars" are not compelled to remain on any track and turn sharp corners.

Regulation of foot traffic means education.

ROMANCE ENDS AS MONEY GOES

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Jan. 30.—Money makes the world go round, 'tis said. It also makes or breaks a romance, according to John Court-right, 19, and Ruth Black, 17.

Sheriff Clifford Wilson, who returned to the city with the couple today, states that John left his home here Monday presumably to resume his studies at Ohio State university at Columbus. But according to information he received, John and Ruth eloped to St. Marys, where they are said to have been married—and ran out of money.

The couple appealed to relatives and instead of financial succor juvenile authorities put in an appearance and brought them back home.

BRADEN NAMED ON TAX BOARD

Former Lieutenant-Governor Appointed by Cooper.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 30.—Appointment of former Lieut. Gov. George C. Braden, 60, Trumbull county, as a Republican member of the state tax commission was announced today by Governor Cooper. The position pays $1,000 a year.

Braden's appointment is for a six-year term beginning February 11 next. He will succeed H. C. Reed, Batavia, Democrat, whose term expires on that date.

The governor indicated he would send a communication to the senate this afternoon, requesting confirmation of Braden's appointment.

Highway Director Robert N. Wald had come a few minutes earlier they would have found "a judge riding on a beer truck," which was said to have been transporting the beer to a train reserved for American Legion members enroute to the national convention in Texas.

On cross-examination Hulbert admitted that he had not a complete record of the conversations between Buckley and Eckhart. Attorney Robert M. Brumbaugh, Dayton, cross-questioned the witness.

Hulbert stated that the conference between the defendant and the government's star witness lasted about a half hour; that money was mentioned only once; that Eckhart led up to the matter; and that the remainder of the talk dealt with Eckhart's political chances for the state prohibition commissionership.

Notes Hulbert made after the visit were examined by Brumbaugh, but returned without remark. Immediately after Hulbert was dismissed, Prosecutor Haveth E. Mau brought up the subject of the letter Buckley wrote to Gov. Cooper, in which he recommended the consideration of Eckhart for the position of state prohibition commissioner.

William N. Woodruff, acting prohibition commissioner of Indiana and Ohio, was then called.

Woodruff's testimony, it was indicated, is to substantiate that of Eckhart. When questioned his answers were brief and precise. He admitted he did not order Eckhart to continue the investigation until he had consulted with government district attorneys.

On cross-examination, Brumbaugh "tore" into the witness with a verbal tirade and Woodruff's answers became vague. The prohibition official was apparently rattled.

Brumbaugh's questioning sought to show that "Buckley was led into a trap."

Dictaphone in Hotel. Woodruff said that when the "star witness" tipped off Buckley as to impending raids, no raids were really being planned.

Another dictaphone incident in a hotel in Cincinnati was discussed. This time it was used to record conversations of Gruber, Schrimper and Eckhart, the testimony showed.

Woodruff was dismissed in short order and James Nissley, Columbus manager of the Western Union, called. He identified certain telegrams that were alleged to have been sent by the state treasurer to Eckhart. Telegrams from Bristol and Chattanooga, Tenn., were introduced as evidence.

A telegram sent to Schrimper from Chattanooga and signed by "O'Brien," was introduced. The date was Nov. 11, and it was pointed out that Buckley sent a wire to Eckhart from that city on that date.

Sell Coal Lands Worth $3,000,000. ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Jan. 30.—Coal properties valued at nearly $3,000,000 were sold at a bankruptcy sale here yesterday for $725,000. The coal lands belonged to the Maher colonies. The mines are located in eastern Ohio, principally in Belmont county.

RIVER FALLS TO 11.3 FEET

Steamers Senator Cordill and Liberty Pass Here.

Falling at the rate of one-tenth foot an hour the Ohio river had reached a stage of 11.3 feet at noon today at Dam No. 8.

Because of cold weather, the wickets will not be raised this week, lock men said, for ice would clog at the dam and make river traffic impossible.

The steamer Senator Cordill passed here last night enroute to Cincinnati. The steamer Liberty arrived here last night from Wheeling, enroute to Pittsburgh.

Buckley Trial

Eckhart were recorded. She read the conversations and was dismissed. Don Griffin was then called to the stand. He was the other witness at the dictograph proceedings. He admitted that his notes were only part of the conversations, and that he heard few references to "beer breweries and bribery" in those conversations.

The defense is plainly trying to show that while Buckley was concerned with getting the job of state prohibition director for Eckhart, the dry agent was "leading Buckley into a trap."

Schrimper and Sperber, who were jointly indicted with Buckley and who pleaded guilty when arraigned, are expected to also assume the witness stand.

Stirring Scene in Court Room.

The courtroom itself presented a stirring scene. Buckley and his wife, and their pretty 23-year-old daughter, Beth, sat at the defense counsel's table. Buckley is an attorney, himself, and often leaned forward and prompted his counsel.

Men and women crowded the little room. They were lined six deep in doorways and stood along the walls. At times during the trial a laugh was afforded the onlookers. One of the attorneys made reference to a "judge riding a beer truck." Judge Hough asked if the attorney was referring to any judge present.

Buckley is seemingly confident as to the outcome of the trial. He chewed gum incessantly. His wife and daughter were a visible comfort to the white haired man.

C. L. Hulbert on Stand. Charles L. Hulbert, federal investigator, was the first witness to take the stand this morning. He said he was ordered to Eckhart's home on the night of Dec. 3, the night of a meeting between Buckley and Eckhart. His testimony supported that given by Eckhart yesterday. Hulbert related that when Eckhart asked Buckley where the promised $300 a month was to come from, the treasurer said "they give so much for each keg of beer."

Buckley said, according to Hulbert, that if the federal officer, who raided the Jackson brewery in Cincinnati, had come a few minutes earlier they would have found "a judge riding on a beer truck," which was said to have been transporting the beer to a train reserved for American Legion members enroute to the national convention in Texas.

On cross-examination Hulbert admitted that he had not a complete record of the conversations between Buckley and Eckhart. Attorney Robert M. Brumbaugh, Dayton, cross-questioned the witness.

Hulbert stated that the conference between the defendant and the government's star witness lasted about a half hour; that money was mentioned only once; that Eckhart led up to the matter; and that the remainder of the talk dealt with Eckhart's political chances for the state prohibition commissionership.

12 CHICAGO JURORS "LOCKED UP" WHEN VERDICT DISPLEASES COURT

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—Twelve jurors got the surprise of their lives today when, after wrangling thirty hours over the fate of three alleged kidnapers, their verdict did not suit the court and they themselves were ordered "locked up."

The jury had imposed the minimum penalty of five years on two of the three defendants charged with the kidnapping of Thomas Gaylor, who was held for $100,000 ransom. The convicted men were James O'Brien and Frank Carson. The third defendant, Harry Burton, was acquitted.

The state had demanded the death penalty for all three men. Judge John P. McGorty, who heard the case, stood up after the verdict was read and severely criticized the jury's action. He termed the verdict "the most inconsistent and illogical" he had ever heard.

The jury reported at midnight, without further explanation, the court ordered the 12 men "locked up" until this afternoon's session of court.

Jap Urges Peace

ago America and Japan meant to each other almost nothing in the way of commerce. Today America is Japan's best customer; and Japan buys from America more than all other nations in the far east combined, including the Philippine Islands. American-Japanese trade in 1927 amounted to $660,000,000. America's raw cotton and Japan's raw silk bring yearly the regular business of $350,000,000.

Yamamoto spoke briefly of the Japanese exclusion act of 1924, pointing out that it endangered American-Japanese friendship, but voicing the hope that sometime a plan of restriction may be devised that will be satisfactory to both nations.

Nippon Overpopulated. "The most difficult problem confronting Japan today is that of overpopulation," said the speaker. "While the home land of Japan is incapable of producing foodstuffs enough to feed the entire nation, her population is increasing at an alarming rate. The shortage of the home supply of food must be made up by imports. And the money needed for the imports must be earned by developing our manufacturing industry and encouraging our foreign trade. America, as I have pointed out, is our best customer. Japan is therefore in a position where she appreciates your American economic cooperation."

"The time is past when men thought that commerce was a source of international trouble. Today no one doubts the truth that whoever buys most has the greatest advantage in selling. Friendship and mutual trust developed between nations through commercial intercourse can build the foundation of enduring peace."

"The talk about Japan having territorial ambitions in Manchuria to take care of her excess population is buncombe. The population problem has two different aspects: the density of population and the home supply of food. Inasmuch as the former is concerned, there are several countries that are more thickly populated than Japan. Japan's difficulty is the problem of the shortage of the home supply of food."

Manchurian Problem. "The roots of the Manchurian problem are hidden in the history of the far eastern nations—Japan, China and Russia. It is a matter of record that in the Russo-Japanese war of 1904-05 Japan fought China's battle as well as her own. Had Japan not accepted Russia's challenge, Manchuria would have become Russian territory. What Japan wants in Manchuria is the preservation of the rights which she secured by winning her war with Russia."

"Much has been said and written about the revision of China's unequal treaties with the foreign powers. Needless to say, the revisor should be made not by the Bolshevik method of repudiation, but by due process of diplomacy between a recognized Chinese government and the foreign powers. Nations have duties as well as rights—duties toward their neighbors. When the powers are convinced that China is ready to discharge her international obligations, they will be willing to revise their old treaties with her either independently or jointly and severally."

"The fundamental principles of Japan's policy toward China are: the maintenance of peace of the far east and the realization of common prosperity of Japan and China. The Japanese government will continue to use her best endeavors in carrying out these principles, because these are the principles the Japanese people desire to be carried out regardless of their party differences. There is no inconsistency in the basic principles of the American and Japanese policies toward China."

Urges Tolerance. "These are trying times internationally. What the world needs most is the spirit of tolerance which was taught by Jesus, the spirit so greatly in evidence at the Washington conference. The progress of mankind toward better human relations depends upon this spirit of tolerance. It is this spirit of tolerance that has kept up our American-Japanese friendship for over 70 years unbroken."

"There are five great institutions at the foundation of the social order of a nation, the home, the school, the church, business and government."

"In its last analysis, the problem of international good understanding is one of character building. The character of a nation ought to grow ever nobler and broader, even to embrace actual interest in things foreign. And in building up the character of a nation, no one can ignore the work of mothers and teachers. A little thoughtfulness on the part of the mothers and teachers will have a tremendous effect upon the broadening of the character of a nation."

Eighteen apartment houses are being constructed in Shanghai, China, which has a building boom.

CLEAN KIDNEYS BY DRINKING LOTS OF WATER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers or Back Hurts.

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them into activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders. Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; make a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders. —Adv.

How Best To Use Vicks VapoRub In Case Of Flu

Begin This Simple External Treatment at First Sign of Any Cough or Cold.

If possible, go home and go to bed. Take a laxative and a hot lemonade. Apply hot wet towels over throat and chest until the skin is thoroughly reddened. Then rub vigorously with Vicks. Spread on thickly and cover with warm flannels.

Leave the bed-covering loose, so that the vapors, released by the body warmth, may be freely inhaled. At the same time, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice.

Repeat this treatment every four hours, eat lightly, and stay in bed until the cold is broken. Complete rest helps the body throw off the cold more quickly.

Mothers especially appreciate Vicks for the children. As it is applied externally, it can be used freely and often, without upsetting delicate digestions, as too much "dosing" is so apt to do.

As in 1918, in spite of tripled capacity, the Vicks laboratories are once more operating at night long. The public is demanding over 375,000 jars every 24 hours.—Adv.

"Owa-Ton-Na Surely a Blessing To Me", Says Local Man

To Really Appreciate What It Does In Kidney, Liver and Stomach Disorders, It Must Be Tried.

To the Laboratory representative, who is now located at Carnahan's Drug Store, 114 East Sixth Street, each day come many people who tell of the good this fine old Indian Remedy is doing. Men and women, young and old, in all walks of life, laud this Herbal Discovery for the harmless way it removes injurious poisons from the body, which causes kidney, liver and stomach disorders; rheumatism, neuritis, nervousness and a general run down condition of health. It is made of roots, herbs, barks and berries and does not contain harmful drugs or alcohol.

Among the many right here in East Liverpool, who recommend Owa-Ton-Na to their many friends is Mr. Ross Ferello, 1065 Elmtree St., dry pan operator at the American Vittrified Products Co. He says, "Anyone who is suffering with stomach and kidney trouble certainly should try Owa-Ton-Na. For sometime I have been having a lot of trouble with my stomach. Food would sour and cause me to have terrible gas and belching spells. Food just seemed to lay in my stomach like a lump of lead, and caused me no end of distress."

"I would try all kinds of medicine but nothing seemed to do much good. I guess my kidneys were in pretty bad condition too, because I used to have terrible backaches and was forced to get up at night to relieve my kidneys. I just got to the point where I felt tired out all the time. Sleep didn't do me much good. I would get up in the morning as tired as I was when I went to bed; but thanks to Owa-Ton-Na, that is all changed now."

"My bowels are acting regularly, my stomach acts fine and my kidneys are 100% better than they were. I got up in the morning with new pep and I certainly feel like a different man."

Mr. Ferello is but one of the thousands who have had remarkable success with Owa-Ton-Na. Even though Owa-Ton-Na has been recently introduced in East Liverpool, it has hundreds of enthusiastic friends who tell of the good it has done. If you are suffering with any of the conditions

State Asks Borough to Aid in Curve Straightening.

ROCHESTER, Pa., Jan. 30.—If the borough of Fallston will provide a necessary right-of-way, the curve in the public highway at the foot of the Fallston hill will be straightened and widened, according to the state highway department. DOZEN YEARS OF SUFFERING END; KONJOLA PRAISED Grateful Lady Happy to Urge All To Try New Medicine That Restored Her to Health.

MRS. J. C. PAULOS, O. Remarkable, but true, it appears that Konjola is at the very apex of its powers when all else has failed. How frequently this is proved, as in the case of Mrs. J. C. Paulos, R. F. D. No. 2, Painesville, Ohio. Jubilant over the magnificent results he found in this master medicine, he says:

"Konjola is almost magical! I marvel when I reflect on what this splendid medicine did for me. For twelve years—digestion, kidney and liver troubles and constipation made life miserable; for twelve years nothing helped me. I had little faith, but friends insisted that I give Konjola a chance. I consented, and what a wise thing that was. Four bottles of this astounding compound turned the trick. In one month the ills of twelve years were ended; in one month all my pain and suffering were swept away. Konjola is the champion of all medicines; it must be to take hold of a protracted case like mine and vanquish it in so short a time. I am told that Konjola is the medicine with more than a million friends. Well, it has won another lifelong friend in me."

Konjola is sold in East Liverpool, O., at Carnahan drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

Splendid Recipe To Stop A Cough That "Hangs On"

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be made at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

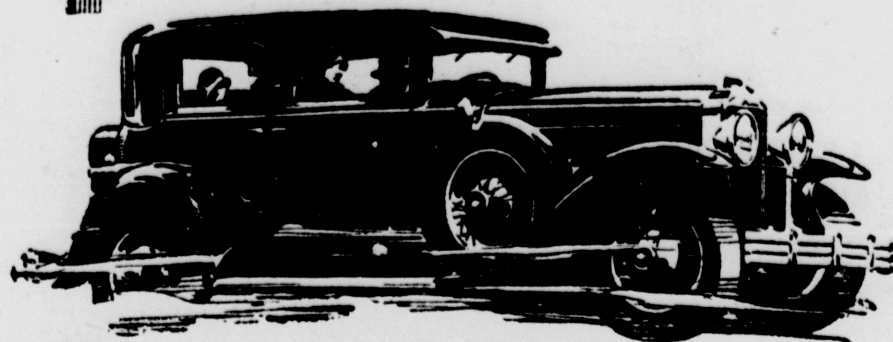

It is surprising how quickly this home-made remedy loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which usually follow the "flu," are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles. Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

His 'Family Curse' May Clear Physician of Murder

Dr. S. Oliver Netherton, rich Olathe, Kan., physician and fruit grower, with his late wife and eight-year-old daughter, Dorothy. His story of a "family curse," now before the Supreme Court of the state, may result in a reversal of conviction on charge of murdering his wife.

Dr. Netherton, Accused Of Slaying Wife, to Get a Rehearing.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Under life sentence for the murder of his wife nearly two years ago, Dr. S. Oliver Netherton, retired physician and fruit grower of Olathe, Kansas, near here, is depending on a mysterious curse which took the lives of six members of his wife's family over the course of a third of a century to free him.

His wife, Mrs. Edith Netherton, was found murdered in the basement of the Netherton home on the outskirts of Olathe in February, 1927. Early that morning Dr. Netherton had seen his daughter, Dorothy, 8 years old, off to school and had done some work on his motor car. His wife had gone with him, he said, to the garage and had stood in the driveway waving to him as he started.

He returned home about 10 o'clock, found the house ransacked and his wife dead in the basement.

Fails To Find Weapon.

Peculiar circumstances connected with the notification of officers of the tragedy caused Dr. Netherton to be held for questioning and later caused the filing of a first degree murder charge against him.

The sheriff failed in an effort to discover the murder weapon, a small caliber revolver. But from the position of the body and from the fact that Mrs. Netherton evidently had been passed by the person who shot her, he concluded it must have been some one with whom she was acquainted.

Little Dorothy Netherton told of a quarrel her father and mother had over the purchase of some cattle and Dr. Netherton was threatened with mob violence. To prevent that he was taken to the Kansas City, Kansas, jail, where he was held without bail. Then he told the officers of his theory of the murder.

Six members of his wife's family, he said, had been murdered mysteriously in 30 years. And he introduced records to substantiate his claims.

He argued that his wife was merely a victim of this person or persons who sought to eliminate her entire family.

The defense did not hold in the opinion of the court and Dr. Netherton was bound over for trial. At the trial he was found guilty and sentenced to life imprisonment. From this he has appealed.

Unexplained Killings.

In 1882 begins the list of unexplained killings on which Dr. Netherton hopes to obtain his freedom. That year, Dode Stahl, a trapper, and a nephew of Mrs. Netherton's mother, was shot to death near Deadwood, S. D.

A few years later, Roll Stahl, Dode's brother, was found shot to death near Exira, Ia.

The same year, Colbert Stahl, father of the two slain men, was shot to death.

In 1916 Arthur Stahl, a first cousin of Mrs. Netherton, was shot to death in Chicago.

Four years later Paxton Muir, a second cousin of Mrs. Netherton, was found murdered in a Los Angeles hotel.

No arrests ever were made in any of these cases, and after Dr. Netherton made his sensational defense bits of evidence began to form that indicated that possibly there might be a little more to the story than the attempt of a lawyer to free his client.

A station agent at Olathe told of being stopped by a man who asked where Edith Stahl lived. That was the name of Netherton's wife before her marriage twenty years before. The inquiry was made the night before the murder.

Another man reported a similar inquiry the morning of the murder. Another told of seeing two strange men in a car drive into the Netherton yard. That testimony was introduced in a hearing on a motion before the district court for a new trial, which was not granted.

And now the supreme court is to have a hearing on this eerie matter. Whether it will decide with twelve jurors and the district judge that the mysterious curse is a figment of the imagination, or actually responsible for the death, is the question which will decide whether Dr. Netherton gets another trial and a chance at freedom or whether he will remain the rest of his life behind prison bars.

Warns Women to Check High Blood Pressure

Thousands of women at the changing time of life are in danger of high blood pressure. It is caused by poisonous waste matter accumulating in the system or the weakening of one or more organs. This forces the heart to do more work and raises blood pressure.

The symptoms are dizziness, shortness of breath, head pains, flushed face, nervousness or sleeplessness. High blood pressure must be treated at once for everyone knows it is too dangerous and quick acting to disregard its symptoms.

Norma is a doctor's prescription for high blood pressure that has been used with great success.

Norma contains no habit forming drugs, and works in such a way that it lessens the duty of the over-taxed heart and reduces blood pressure swiftly and surely. Often one bottle brings great relief. Get a bottle of Norma today from any drug store, and free yourself from the symptoms of blood pressure.—Adv.

WOMEN'S TRICKS AT MONTE CARLO REVEALED BY FAMOUS CROUPIER

PARIS.—Women are not good losers when it comes to gambling. However, they are less likely to lose, since they are inclined to do a little cheating, when required, to patch up a bad luck. M. Paul de Ketchiva, Monte Carlo croupier for many years, says these things in a recently published book of memoirs.

M. de Ketchiva has been in the profitable end of the gambling business for 30 years. He started at Monte Carlo long before the World war at the then princely salary of $2,000 a year. During his career he has turned down bribes totalling millions of dollars.

Lifting a chip or two from neighbors is not exclusively a female sin, but is practiced mostly by members of the fair sex, says M. de Ketchiva. One day Margherita, the dowager queen of Italy, was playing at his table when suddenly she found herself accused of chip lifting by another woman player.

Casino attendants removed the object. When the latter learned the identity of the person she had accused, she hurried to the queen and excused herself in awkward fashion. The queen looked at her with a cold smile and said: "My dear woman, I have nothing to forgive you, since I cannot remember that any one has accused me of theft."

Sarah Bernhardt and Eleonore Duse often played at de Ketchiva's table. "The Divine Sarah" always lost while the luck of Duse was indifferent. At one time, de Ketchiva recounts, Sarah Bernhardt was on the verge of poisoning herself over the loss of 100,000 francs, but a friend saved her.

At another time, Rudolph Valentino, who was a frequent visitor to the Monte Carlo gambling rooms, saved a woman from suicide at the tables by knocking a poisoned draught of champagne out of her hand.

Prince Carl Snubbed. De Ketchiva tells how Prince Carol of Rumania was snubbed by fellow royalty. On that particular occasion the Crown Prince of Belgium was playing at roulette, with Princes Astrid, his consort, and Olav, the Crown Prince of Norway. Carol of Rumania entered, Madame Lupescu at his side. Astrid, Leopold and Olav took no notice and treated him as air. Carol coughed, plainly embarrassed, and moved with Madame Lupescu to another table.

Systems for breaking the bank are no good, declares M. de Ketchiva. Several people have succeeded in "breaking the bank," but not by following any system. Sheer luck is what is needed to achieve the feat, and nothing else. The best approach to a system is that of playing even chances and doubling four times in event of loss. It is seldom that the bank wins four times in a row. One cannot break the bank by that system, however, and if it backfires, it breaks the player instead.

Monte Carlo pawnbrokers do a land office business, according to M. de Ketchiva. Pledges run from diamonds and pearl collars to objects of little or no intrinsic value.

"Uncle" once lent $100 on a baby. The pawnbroker felt safe, thinking that surely the woman would redeem

Prison Gates Open For Pretty Slayer

"I haven't a single regret," said Mme. Saludes (above), whose pardon was signed by former Governor Smith as his last official act. She'll begin all over again in her native country.

Mme. Paulette Saludes Sails for France to Begin New Life.

NEW YORK.—As the big transatlantic liner slipped down the river on the midnight tide, a slender woman in her middle thirties leaned negligently against the rail, peering over the side. Outwardly there was nothing to distinguish her from her fellow passengers; actually there was an amazing difference.

For—The attractively-gowned woman standing so quietly in the lee of her stateroom was returning to her homeland, France, after spending six years in a felon's cell. She had killed her sweetheart. Had been duly tried, convicted and sentenced to pass the remainder of her life in prison. But there were certain mitigating circumstances; the case was brought to the attention of former Governor Alfred E. Smith. Finally, as his last official act, he signed a pardon for her.

But, although she is returning to France, to Paris, there to pick up the thread of life where she left off nearly 10 years ago, Mme. Paulette Saludes hasn't a single regret for firing the shot that sent Oscar Martelliere to his grave and herself to prison.

"Sorry I feel Martelliere? I haven't a single regret!" she declared, her eyes glinting stormily. "He got what he richly deserved."

"He took everything I had; broke up my home, robbed me of my husband, property, everything. When I could give no longer, I find out how false he is. Something went wrong in my head and I killed him."

Mme. Saludes's last memory of her husband is when she and Martelliere, his trusted friend and business associate, bade him bon voyage as he set sail for Algiers to sell some lumber. He was to return as soon as possible.

While he was at sea, Mme. Saludes learned after the tragedy, Martelliere cabled him that his wife had been unfaithful to him. This was an untruth, calculated to cause the husband to remain away. Finally the wife yielded to Martelliere's wooing and came to the United States with him.

"The future?" Mme. Saludes shrugged an expressive shoulder. "Who can tell? Perhaps a little dressmaker's shop with my mother to help me; maybe something else. But—no marriage, no men..."

her own child. But she didn't—for the baby was not hers. She had stolen it from another woman!

Cascara is Your Doctor's Choice

When physicians pronounce cascara the PERFECT laxative—why experiment with things that lash the system into action? Cascara, you know is the bark of a tree. A natural and normal stimulus to the bowels.

The Indians, who used to chew this bark, had no word in their language that meant "constipation!"

Perfect regularity is possible today, and to all of us. We have cascara in ideal form; the very delightful-tasting candy Cascaret gives us pure cascara. It has helped at least a million people to habitual regularity. Millions of others, unfortunately, have stuck to stronger things and acquired only the laxative habit.

CASCARETS
They Work While You Sleep!

Your first Cascaret will demonstrate how THOROUGH this gentle laxative is, after all. Your next surprise will be the length of time before you need another. Eventually, you'll see that cascaring tends to make the bowels move thereafter of their own accord!

A modern drug store must stock many laxatives, but for your own good the druggist would rather have you ask for the inexpensive little box of Cascarets than anything else.

The W. S. Rice Reducing Surgical Corset

The front and back are so designed that those great layers of fat that bulge over the abdomen and roll in waves down the back to the waist, are all smoothed out and gently but firmly kept in place to show 50 to 75 pounds reduction.

It lifts up and supports the abdomen, snugly rounds over the hips, curves the waistline to symmetrical appearance and brings the entire figure into slenderizing proportion.

On Free Trial

In every neighborhood and community are women who have undergone surgical operations, leaving weak places that sometimes break apart with most unfortunate results. If you have undergone a surgical operation that has left the abdomen weak, a simple attachment of air cushions to the conformer gives perfect support and protection.

It is made by Wm. S. Rice, Inc., in the largest and most complete factory of its kind in the world, and it needs but a try-on to prove it the first and only perfect Reducing Corset ever made for stout women.

Put it on and see how charmingly it feels, how perfectly it brings you into shape, how nice and comfortable you feel, how easily you breathe, how active you become, how you can bend over without strain, walk upstairs like a girl and wear modern gowns with all the appearance and freedom of a perfect figure.

Mrs. M. J. Hudson, the personal representative of Wm. S. Rice, is now here to give the ladies of East Liverpool every opportunity to fully test this wonderful Reducing Corset.

Brick Plant Worker's Condition Critical

Gail Cronin, 20, Injured in Accident at Dando Works, Rallies Slightly Following Amputation of Foot.

WELLSVILLE, O., Jan. 30.—Hopes for recovery of Gail Cronin, 20, Iron-dale, injured in an accident at the Fred J. Dando brick works, near Irondale on January 11, were held by physicians today following amputation of Cronin's left leg. The limb was removed above the knee.

Cronin's foot was crushed when a pile of steel rails fell on the member. He was taken to the East Liverpool hospital.

It was decided to amputate his left leg as the only means of saving his life.

Dr. J. V. Rice, Wellsville, who has been in charge of the case, along with Dr. R. J. Marshall, East Liverpool, today said that Cronin's condition was inclined to show signs of improvement.

Amputation was delayed as a result of the general infection in that region of the leg most affected and by fever. As a result of this infection it was found impossible, physicians say, to save any portion of the lower leg.
